

NEWS FROM Mrs. Dravet

October 9th

Either write something worth reading or do something worth writing.

Benjamin Franklin

Other News

Sign-up for Parent-Teacher conferences has begun.

Sign up now to get the time you want ☺

Picture retakes will happen on Thursday, November 5th.

Also, due to the shortened week, I will not send out a parent letter next Friday. Look for a short email from me on the 16th instead.

Science

The class worked on using flashlights to bend and reflect light with a mirror or lens. They also added color to lights to understand how light mixes together - it's different than paint. The test was on Friday.

I have a 4 day wonderful weekend!

Reading/Language Block

This week the class finished writing and revising their tall tale. A few students may have brought home their tall tale to finish writing or they may be working on the "artistic" portion of the project that goes along with the tall tale. Next week, your child will begin writing a narrative paper about a trip into a spooky mansion. Also, next week we will read a story about the challenges that Chinese and Irish immigrants faced while building the Transcontinental Railroad.

Math

We took the Chapter 2 test on Thursday, and we will continue working on multiplication.

Your child's test will be in next week's Friday folder. Next week, we will start our geometry unit. Once again, we will have the students switch teachers for math extension time.
